

Home Town is highly undervalued and we are considering to hive it off from Future Retail and merge it with FabFurnish to create a separate entity to unlock value for investors. By the end of FY17 Home Town will have revenue of ₹1,000 crore and EBITDA of around 50 to ₹60 crore," Biyani told reporters at a press conference.

Biyani said that he is very clear his company doesn't want to drive topline at the cost of profitability. "We are in a hurry and we understand that there is costs associated with technology and the business. We don't want to run our business on loss," he said.

FabFurnish will be relaunched on Thursday and will have a lot of exciting offers on the its website. The company plans to focus on its omnichannel presence and will launch Big Bazaar.com and Oxigen Wallet in June.

Ashish Garg, co-founder, FabFurnish, said, that Fab

Furnish would be profitable in the next three months. "While no other online players can dream of turning profitable in the near future, we will be profitable in the next three months." FabFurnish reported losses worth ₹4.7 crore for the year ended March 31, 2015, according to a company filing.
